

Globalization Across Borders

Reflection

During this project, I learned more about the Boeing Company through an illustrated essay. I also learned that if I apply myself when making art, I could actually make it decent.

I faced some challenges during this project. First, my art didn't turn out well on the first couple of drafts. I had to consult with Joann on what I could do to make it better. Because I got a consultation from Joann, I was able to fix it. Also, KJ and my paragraphs that we wrote for the essay had two distinct writing styles. Because of that, we had Rose critique for maximum fluency.

If I had the opportunity to redo this project, I would redo my photos. I would have tried to make it 3D like KJ's. Even though mine were not 3D, they are still better than how they were before I got suggestions from Mariah and Joann.

This project will help me later as it enriched my knowledge of Boeing, a subdivision of my passion of aviation. I also learned that globalization affects us all, from pricing to labor issues.
