

Eric Harmatz
October 9, 2008

Language Acquisition Resource Center Lab Assistants

The Language Acquisition Resource Center at SDSU is looking for lab assistants at the LARC Labs.

Duties include:

- Assisting students with their computer problems
- Checking in and out language materials
- Assisting classes and teachers when they use the LARC Lab
- Preparing digital multimedia for instructors (burning and organizing DVDs and CDs)

Requirements/Skills:

- Must be proficient with technology
- Good people skills
- Knowledge of both the MAC OS and the Windows Platform
- Must be patient with those who do not have computer experience

Also a plus if you have good movie editing skills, as we are currently creating video narratives on the software at our Labs to supplement student's learning of the software we offer.

The World of Work is a cycle of responsibilities that everyone contributes to make the world a better place. Everyone contributes and everyone takes a little bit of this cycle. After doing the two week immersion, I see that my responsibilities have contributed a lot to LARC. The fetch slips and movies I created contributed to LARC in a positive way. People will use (take) these contributions I made during their daily lives just like I take from those who make contributions daily. It's a cycle.